BAC hosts career planning program

The Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, 4550 Maryville Road, will host the "Career Planning Program," a two-part seminar from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 17, and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 22, in room L-400, as part of a series of "Seminars for Success."

There is a $7 fee for the program.

Program coordinator Pat Lurtz said the first day of the seminar is a comprehensive assessment of career interests, abilities and experience. The second session is an interpretation and review of the assessment.

School head defends job

Madison County's top school official says a plan to abolish his job would hurt educational efforts in the county. See Page 3A for the story.

Too many breaks?

A new study says Illinois is too good to its senior citizens — at least in its methods of giving tax breaks. The full story is on Page 9A.

Tip of the hat

Bridgett Jorgensen recently graduated from the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine. She is the daughter of John and Marlene McNew of Granite City and a 1981 graduate of Granite City North High School. Bridgett now plans to move to Suwanee, Ga., and begin her dental practice in Atlanta. She and her husband, Allen Jorgensen, have a son, Christopher, and are expecting a second child in January.

Granite City Firefighter Rick Gaines introduces four-year-old Salitah McGhee to "Pluggie," the department's new teaching aid.

Robot 'plugs' fire safety

Children are fascinated by Pluggie the Robot. Pluggie, a state-of-the-art electronic device, is the latest addition to Operation FIRESAFE — the Granite City Fire Department's community education and fire prevention program.

Pluggie will be visiting Granite City elementary schools throughout the year, teaching children fundamental fire safety in a fun and interesting way.

Pluggie the Robot has been proven to provide the necessary visual stimuli and communication enhancement that is very crucial in the educational processes of today. Fire Chief Jerry Wallace said.

He said the animated tool creates a more responsive learning atmosphere by getting and keeping children's attention and trust.

The robot operates from a remote control device, and has two-way radio capability, allowing it to interact with children and answer their questions. Other features include mobility, movable eyelids, and a squarish, puzzle-like attention of any mind that may wander during a fire education presentation.

A hidden firefighter will control Pluggie from a remote location.

Children think of the four-foot-tall character as a friend rather than an object, Wallace said.

"They'll hug it and kiss it. They'll ask it questions. It's just like a new friend," Wallace said.

Pluggie will make his initial visit to area schools during Fire Safety Week, Oct. 12-16, Wallace said.

Wide open City mayoral race may draw large field

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Several aldermen, the city's economic development director and a former assistant police chief are among the many who are kicking around the idea of running for mayor of Granite City next April.

Five aldermen — Walter Milton, Jim Miller, Paul Fisk, Dan Partney and Jeff Worthen — Economic Development Director Alan Orndall and former assistant police chief Ron Selph are among those rumored to be considering candidacies.

While none of those seven potential candidates were willing to firmly commit to candidacy when interviewed Monday, none of them were ruling out the possibility either.

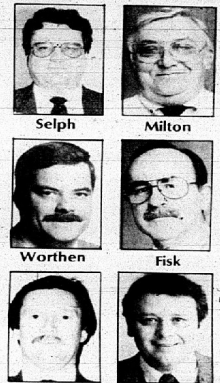

Mayor Von Dee Cruse's announcement two weeks ago that he intends to step down after his second term of office leaves Alderman Dan Brown as the only candidate to have formally announced his intention to seek the office in the 1993 election.

Cruse is stepping down for family considerations. Several of the aldermen said the announcement will make for a "wide open" race.

"I think you'll see a whole field — up to six candidates," Partney, chairman of the City Council's Street and Alley Committee, said.

Partney, who unsuccessfully sought the office in the past, said "it's something you don't flat say 'no' to."

Partney said he has been approached by "a lot of people" about the possibility in the past two weeks — including a number he said he "never would have dreamed" would support him. There are a lot of things to think about," he said.

Milton, chairman of the City Council's powerful Finance Committee, said he is "considering" a run for the position, but also said "it's early yet." He said he expects to make a decision sometime in October.

Miller, chairman of the Downtown Committee, declined to comment about his intentions.

Protest group faces off with KKK supporters

FOSTER TOWNSHIP — A group of anti-Ku Klux Klan demonstrators and a gathering of Klansmen faced off across Torch Club Road Saturday.

But authorities from three police agencies prevented any other than oral exchanges.

Nearly 40 protesters from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville marched in front of Klansman Terry Taviner's home calling for peace and unity. About 200 Klan supporters gathered in Taviner's back yard to hear Klan Grand Wizard Thomas Robb of Arkansas speak out about Christianity and white supremacy.

"Trouble is coming upon America, and our children," shouted Robb as he stood on a porch above a crowd of men, women and children. "The white population will be less than 50 percent in less than 60 years.

"If you think you have trouble with minorities today, what will it be like when they are the majority. We may be dead, but our children will have to suffer, the consequences."

The Klan burned a torch about 9:30 p.m. after about 2 1/2 hours of speeches.

While Klan supporters cried out "white power," the protesters called back from the road, "Peace, not hate, love, not war."

Protester Lauri Ivey, 19, held a sign and shook her head in disbelief.

"I think this rally is ignorant," she said. "A lot of these (Klan supporters) are here because they follow trends. I don't think they really know why they're here."

"Our country has moved past race, and we're approaching diversity and unity. This is the type of thing that sets it back."

Robb spoke at a press conference for the media on Taviner's front lawn about 5 p.m. with five Klan security guards standing by his side.

A steady stream of Klan supporters followed him.

'Friends cry' Holy Family float wins parade trophy

"Friends Cry When Friends Die" was the theme of a parade float built by Holy Family Catholic School that captured the Mayor's Trophy in the Citywide Fight Against Drugs Festival parade on Saturday.

More than 70 units participated in the parade, which was an Old-Fashioned Family Get-Together at Wilson Park, capped off the Citywide Fight Against Drugs Festival.

The Mayor's Trophy was presented to the unit that best exemplified the theme of the parade: "Granite City Drug Free by 2000."

Ed Schroeder, an English teacher at Coolidge Junior High School and the 1991 Walt Disney American Teacher of the Year, served as the grand marshal of the parade.

Holy Family also won the first place trophy in the elementary school division. In that division, Wilson School won second place and Lake School finished third.

In the junior and senior high school division, the high school's VICA vocational students won first place, the Coolidge Junior High Band won second place and the Grigsby Junior High Band won third.

In the business and fraternal organization division, first place went to the Granite City DARE Bear and Drug Abuse Resistance Education officer Walter Milton Jr. Second place went to the Granite City Elks and third to the Granite City Business and Professional Women club.

The judges for the competition were Mindy Stephens, high school student body president, Jennifer Simon, high school student council representative, and Steve Hamilton, high school coordinator of activities. Trophies were presented to the winners at a ceremony immediately following the parade.

School head blasts plan to cut his job

Parents should have more say than bureaucrats in how children are educated, a county school official said.

Madison County Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry A. Briggs Jr. blasted a State Board of Education plan to eliminate the regional superintendents' offices.

He said the move would mean less local control over crucial education decisions.

Under a proposal expected to go before the Legislature early next year, regional superintendents would be eliminated and replaced by regionally-elected boards that would hire professional administrators.

Those administrators would assume the duties now performed by the regional superintendents, such as teacher certification and high school equivalency tests, said Kim Knauer, a spokeswoman for the state board.

In addition, the professional administrators would take over some of the services currently provided by regional special education and vocational education agencies, Knauer said.

The consolidation of services would cut down on waste, duplication of services and confusion among local school districts.

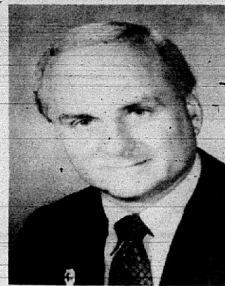

"The way it is now, these local (school officials) don't know which office to go to for what," Knauer said.

"They don't know if they are supposed to go to the regional superintendent, the (vocational education office) or special ed for different services," Knauer said.

Briggs, however, said the state board's proposal would concentrate power in the hands of "bureaucrats in Springfield."

"I don't want to see this office eliminated as an elected position," he said.

"There is more local control over education if this is an elected office because if the voters don't think I'm doing my job, they can throw me out."

Harry Briggs

Knauer said local control would not be diminished since the regional board members would be elected.

It was not clear, however, how large the regions would be. Under the existing system, Briggs' region is Madison County.

"The way it is now, if (State Superintendent of Schools) Bob Leininger tells me to do something and I don't think it's in the best interests of the people in this country, I don't have to do it," Briggs said.

"I don't like the circumstances of a Big Brother thing and that's what Leininger has in mind," Briggs said.

Pair is blown out of home by hurricane, forced out of refuge

ALTON — When Judy Jeghers and her brother moved to Florida two years ago, they thought they were living a fairy tale.

But when Hurricane Andrew took a spin through their town of 30,000, it closed one of the happiest chapters of their lives.

"One day everything is fine and then the next day your whole world is gone," Jeghers, 27, said. "We had jobs and a home and now we have nothing. The hurricane destroyed our lives."

Jeghers and her brother, Philip Wright, packed up what little belongings they could salvage from their Homestead, Fla., condominium Aug. 23 and drove to Bethalto to stay with their mother.

But their story took another turn for the worse when they were told by their mother's landlord, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, that they had to move out of her three-room apartment by Sunday.

HUD regulations would not allow them to stay there, officials said.

"We don't have anywhere to go," Wright, 25, said. "We've been out looking for apartments every day, but no one will lease to us because we haven't found steady jobs yet. They tell us they need people who are stable."

If the pair can find an apartment, the Alton-Wood River chapter of the American Red Cross will advance the money for a security deposit and the first month's rent.

"These kids have nothing," said Barbara Van Walleghen, director of the chapter. "Right now they're living under the gun. We've agreed to pay their rent if someone would lease to them. They're stuck in a really bad situation."

Jeghers and Wright, who both graduated from East Alton-Wood River High School, worked at a Winn-Dixie grocery store in Homestead before the hurricane flattened the building.

Van Walleghen has contacted several grocery stores in the Alton area seeking employment for them but to no avail.

"There just aren't any openings right now. They have several years' experience in the business, and they could really use a break."

"We can help with food, clothing and rent, but we can't get them jobs," Van Walleghen said. "They're good kids and they want to work."

In addition to working in the grocery store's seafood section, Jeghers also attended art school and sold Avon products. Wright worked full time in the store's produce department.

(Winn-Dixie) gave us one pay check after the hurricane, but they said the lost the other ones," Jeghers said. "We were training to become managers before the storm."

Braun praises Scott Base joint-use plan

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The Scott Joint Civilian-Military Use project provides a strong opportunity to make an economic transition from the Cold War era, U.S. Senate candidate Carol Moseley Braun said Thursday.

Braun, the Democratic nominee, was greeted by about 30 people as her "caravan" parked outside the gates of Scott Air Force Base, Belleville. A two-hour delay had cut the crowd in half.

"Scott Joint-Use makes sense because we will use what we already have to create jobs," she said.

"This base could have been closed, but the people of this community decided to come together and make it work."

The $229 million project would expand air traffic capacity at Scott Air Force Base for commercial use.

In addition to $12 million in federal funds for land acquisition at the site, the state has promised $60 million over five years and St. Clair County recently approved a $10 million bond issue to pay its share.

Braun said areas of the United States had built fences "because we didn't like our neighbors," but times have changed and the lessening of military threats provides new opportunities.

"We can get back to our productive capability by providing manufacturing jobs," Braun said. "The greatest family value is employment, so we should make sure people have the ability to work and provide for their families."

Braun said she already has been working with outgoing Sen. Alan Dixon to learn more specifics about the joint-use project and how to ensure continued federal financial support.

"I'll work hard with Sen. Dixon to pick up the ball on Scott joint-use," she said.

Carol Moseley Braun

The project also provides a prime chance for a public-private partnership to occur and gives voters hope that the economy will recover, Braun said.

"We're at a critical election point. People are looking for change all over the country."

"They know what the problems are, but we must give them a sense of hope to know they can make it better," she said.

Braun urged local officials to strive to get more people registered to vote in the November election.

State retirement systems boosted

Gov. Jim Edgar signed legislation on Aug. 26 to reduce the dormancy period for unclaimed property and boost funding for the five state public retirement systems by $50 million.

"Despite the tight budget situation state government is facing today, we must assure state workers, teachers and university employees that their pension systems remain solvent," the governor said. "When I announced my proposed budget in April, I said I was committed to putting an additional $50 million above last year's levels into our retirement funds. Today, I am fulfilling that pledge."

Under current law, most financial assets which lie untouched for seven years are presumed to be abandoned and are remitted to the state to be deposited in the state pension fund. The legislation (Senate Bill 1949) signed by the governor reduces that period to five years.

After payment of unclaimed property claims and administrative costs, the remaining monies are proportionately distributed to the state-funded retirement systems for state employees, judges, public school teachers, university employees and the General Assembly.

"Reducing the dormancy period to five years is a simple two-year change that allows us to pump more dollars into the pension fund without jeopardizing an individual's rights to reclaim his or her property," Edgar said.

Thirty-one other states have dormancy periods for unclaimed property of five years or less. Unlike some other states, however,

Illinois law provides a mechanism for property owners to reclaim their assets even if the dormancy period has been exceeded.

The new law is effective immediately.

The governor also approved House Bill 3230, which will prevent a large balance from accumulating in the state pension fund by creating a continuing appropriation from the fund to the five state retirement systems.

Simon calls President a 'no-show' on job training

The following article is by Robert Estill of Copley News Service.

Responding to President Bush's proposal for a five-year, $10 billion expansion of job-training programs, Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said Bush has been a "no-show" on job training and his administration has opposed some programs he now endorses.

"He didn't even suit up when we took the field time and again to fight for several of the steps he now says he supports," said Simon, a leading sponsor of job-training programs and chairman of the Senate subcommittee that would consider the Bush proposals.

"What we have here is a president who has skipped an entire season and now shows up to say he wants to be a quarterback to carry the ball on this next year," Simon continued. "His timing is a little suspicious, to be generous about it."

Simon did not mention one member of the Bush administration who is not a late player — the vice president. As a senator, the conservative Quayle teamed up with liberal Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to produce the 1982 Job Training Partnership Act.

Simon was a co-sponsor of the House version in 1982 when he was a Southern Illinois representative. He is the chief Senate sponsor of legislation recently sent to Bush that would target job-training funds to those most in need, such as high school dropouts.

Pac money. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., ranked 10th among all Senate candidates in the amount of money received from political action committees for special interest groups so far in this campaign cycle, according to a compilation by "Congressional Quarterly."

Of the $2.1 million Dixon raised in the 18 months between Jan. 1, 1991, and June 30 of this year, $911,123 came from PACs, according to rankings by the weekly publication that monitors Congress.

Cook County Recorder of Deeds Carol Moseley Braun, who defeated Dixon in Illinois March 17 primary, ranked third. Of the $2.27 million she raised as of midyear, $386,700 came from PACs.

Rich Williamson, the Republican Senate nominee who did not become a candidate until December, ranked 47th. Of the $1 million he had raised, $143,577 came from PACs.

Festival will celebrate Serbian heritage, food and music

By Lois Kendall
Staff writer

The sixth annual Serbifest will celebrate the heritage, customs, music and food specialties of the Serbian people.

The colorful festival will run from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 19, and from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 20, at Holy Trinity Serbian Eastern Orthodox Church, 1910 Serbian Drive (McNair Avenue) near Interstate 44 and Jefferson Avenue.

Highlights of the weekend include performances by the "KOLO" Dance Troupe from Hamilton, Ontario. The troupe has performed extensively throughout Canada and the United States, including Lincoln Center. The Becari Orchestra will provide music.

Always highlights at the festival are the authentic Serbian dishes, prepared by the men and women of the parish.

The parishioners begin preparing the food weeks before the event," said Mary-Ellen Tobin, publicity chairwoman of the Serbifest. "The men do the barbecuing, and they begin marinating the meats (lamb and pig) the week before. The women begin making the sarma (stuffed cabbage rolls), cevaps (a sausage made of lamb, beef and veal) and a variety of scrumptious pastries, including apple and cheese pita (Serbian strudels).

The Rev. Radomir Chikautovich, pastor at Holy Trinity, will conduct tours of the church on both days. Church icons will be displayed and their history and significance explained. A videotape on the culture of the Serbian people will be shown in the church.

Arts and crafts, handmade by members of the parish, will be exhibited and sold on the church grounds, along with jams, plants and waffles from Yugoslavia. Kolach, a bread used during Slava—a familial celebration of its patron saint's feast day—will be available for sampling, with a whole one to be sold on Sunday.

Debbie Zurich, owner of Apollo Travel, has donated a trip for two to Las Vegas to be given away on Sunday. Other prizes include a weekend at Embassy Suites, tickets to a Cardinals baseball game and a Blues hockey jacket.

The Ladies Society of the church has compiled a cookbook of its own family and ethnic recipes, along with a few "fun" recipes—like the one for "elephant stew, serving 3,000 people"—thrown in. Though the soft-cover cookbook, "Kolo Srpski Sestara"—The Circle of Serbian Sisters—won't be available until the fall, advance orders will be taken at the Serbifest. After the festival, the cookbooks will be available by calling 788-2637.

Though the St. Louis Serbian community originally settled in the neighborhood surrounding Holy Trinity Church, its members now are scattered throughout the metropolitan area, Tobin said.

There is a deep sadness among the local Serbian community over events taking place in the former Yugoslav republic, Tobin said. "We, as Serbian, are in a bad light with the public now," Tobin said. "But we are hoping people are intelligent enough to realize that not everyone over there is bad. Both sides have innocent people and a few radicals who cause trouble. Unfortunately, the masses pay the price."

Tobin said many St. Louis area Serbians have relatives in the European war zone. "Families here are worried," she said. "Some haven't heard from their relatives for months. When they do get reports on the situation, it's not good—it's very frightening. I can't imagine what it must be like to live under those circumstances. I hope I never have to."

"We all feel like it is such a tragedy over there. Both sides need to stop. We look at it and pray it ends soon."

For now, the local Serbian community wants to let people know what they're really like. Tobin said. "We're friendly, we like music and dancing and we like good food."

That's what the Serbifest is all about.

Revenue from Belle helped bail out city

Second of three parts
Part luck for passengers on the Alton Belle Casino has been good for city finances.

In its first year in operation, the floating casino dumped $3.2 million into city coffers.

The city has cashed in on passenger losses to the tune of almost $2.3 million in taxes, and has taken in $1.20 for every person boarding the boat, or $94,000.

The distribution from the casino cruises came at a time when city finances were swimming in red.

"We were $1.7 million in deficit, but we luckily got $600,000 more in gambling revenue than we expected," Alton Mayor Ed Voumard Jr. said. "It really lowered the amount we had to borrow."

The mayor had budgeted $300,000 in gambling revenue for the city's last fiscal year, 1991-92, which runs from April 1 through March 31. Instead, the city received $1.1 million in the fiscal year.

The city is expecting $3.1 million this fiscal year.

In December and January, the city laid off 19 employees and sold a $1.5 million short-term bond issue.

"Without the gambling this year, we would have had to get more money in the (bond issue) note. This has really been good for us," Voumard said.

The taxes and other revenue are just part of the money in the pot, he added.

"The (Belle) has become a good corporate neighbor," Voumard said.

Near Christmastime the Alton

"We were $1.7 million in deficit, but we luckily got $600,000 more in gambling revenue than we expected. It really lowered the amount we had to borrow."

— Ed Voumard Jr.
Alton Mayor

Riverboat Gambling Partnership bought lights and paid for the electricity illuminating the trees near the boat and along Third Street.

The company also landscaped a part of the Riverfront Park and renovated the parking lot near the boat.

While the results in Downtown businesses have been mixed, the Belle has increased the volume of business at some restaurants.

"The boat is marketing and bringing people here to the boat. It's up to the shops to market and get them from the boats into their businesses. They can offer specials or something to people with Belle tickets," Voumard said.

"One restaurant was able to increase the volume by 30 people a week doing that."

Despite the city's good luck this year, Voumard said he realizes maintaining the level of gambling revenue is a roll of the dice.

The possibility of boats popping up in St. Louis and St. Charles is not a large threat to Alton Belle business, but a major casino complex in Chicago could hurt the riverboat casino industry, Voumard said.

"People won't go on a boat" if they can go from St. Louis to Chicago for $40 or $50 round-trip air fare and enjoy a 12-block area with theme parks and four different casinos, Voumard said.

Because gambling revenue is a game of chance, Voumard said the city cannot depend on it.

Right now, only 20 cents of the $1.20 per passenger tax for the city is earmarked for special funds. Half of the 20 cents goes to the special fund to improve the riverfront and proposed new marina, and the other half goes to a fund to build in the Hunter and Russell Commons area.

Those funds each grew by $78,000 in the Belle's first year.

"If we had the rest of the money earmarked for special one-time projects, eventually we would have more money to do those one-time projects like road repair," Voumard said.

Report finds state's tax breaks for senior citizens too liberal

Illinois senior citizens enjoy some of the most liberal tax breaks in the nation, with little regard to their actual financial needs, according to a report by the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois.

A major senior citizens group disputes some of the findings but says Illinois' tax system is what keeps many elderly people out of poverty.

Joseph McMenamin, a Springfield attorney, prepared the report for the Taxpayers' Federation, a non-profit research organization.

McMenamin is former manager of the state Revenue Department's income tax legal division and is secretary of the Illinois State Bar Association's state and local tax section.

He found that state and local governments provide more than $500 million a year in tax breaks for senior citizens.

However, most of those breaks benefit mostly seniors with high incomes and who own property, not necessarily low-income seniors, he said.

The cost to state and local governments for such programs will significantly increase as the population of the state proportionately grows older in the coming years, McMenamin said.

About 12.4 percent of the Illinois population is currently older than 65. That portion should hit 14.3 percent by the year 2015, according to the report.

"The tax breaks have to be more carefully directed," McMenamin said in an interview. "We're giving these (breaks) without regard to financial need."

Illinois' four main tax breaks for the elderly are: the senior citizens and disabled persons property tax relief act, better known as the "circuit breaker program"; the senior citizen property tax homestead exemption; the income tax deduction for retirement income; and the senior citizen double personal income tax exemption.

Older residents benefit disproportionately from the state's overall income tax deduction for property taxes, because younger people are more likely to rent, McMenamin says.

The biggest break is Illinois' policy of not taxing most retirement income, such as government or private pensions.

"No other state has anything like it," said McMenamin, who emphasized that he is not attacking the concept of helping seniors.

The problem, he said, is that Illinois doesn't seem to be directing the tax breaks toward those most in need.

Jim Nowlan, president of the Taxpayers' Federation, said Illinois tax breaks are misdirected and drain money away from other state programs. But he questioned whether anything will change unless the state revamps its entire tax code for everyone.

"Let's put it this way: Which legislator do you think will rush to sponsor the legislation changing the tax system for the elderly?"

Janet Ottwell of the American Association of Retired Persons said there is no need to change programs because the system is working the way it was designed to—helping those on fixed incomes.

"One of the reasons they (the elderly) are not under the poverty level is because they do have opportunities for (tax breaks)."

She agreed that some breaks simply apply to people of a certain age who own property. "But many of those people who own homes are cash-poor but property-rich," Ottwell said.

Nowlan questioned that assertion, saying that many wealthy people receive pensions and don't have to pay a state income tax.

He specifically noted that former Gov. James Thompson is eligible for a $79,000 a year state pension, while outgoing U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon could receive a $70,000 a year pension.

Dippel meets expectations as Warriors' leading scorer

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Brent Dippel has heard the whispers. He wants to turn them into shouts of joy.

Dippel, the first East Side Publications Journal Athlete of the Week for the 1992-93 school year, seems to always be reminded that no matter what he does athletically, he can do better.

"I've heard that remark throughout my entire playing career."

Dippel said. "Just because I'm big a lot of people don't feel I'm quick enough out there. But I can hold my own pretty well and I get to a lot of free balls."

"Size can work both ways. It shouldn't matter how big or small a player is. Heart and determination are the primary factors. I give it my all every time I play. My goal is to help this team any way I can. Coach Baker has placed a lot of responsibilities on my shoulders and I'm glad he has so much confidence in me."

Soccer has carried Dippel through thick and thin over the years. It's also paved the way to a splendid career that could land him at an NCAA Division I school next season. Dippel displayed those explosive talents last week.

He scored a goal in Granite City's 5-0 victory over Alton on Sept. 8, and he assisted on all three goals last Thursday as the Warriors beat Collinsville 3-1 at the Gauntlet.

"We're using Brent wherever we need him," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "He's responded beautifully. I put him through a rigorous workout on Saturday and he was extremely impressive. Brent's a big kid (5-2, 200 pounds) and he's a versatile athlete."

"He also has tremendous skills. He's a two-footed player, and when he's in playing shape, Brent can make a huge impact during a game."

But soccer is more than just a game to Dippel.

"It's helped me grow up over the years," he said. "All of my coaches, including coach Baker, have guided me through thick and thin. They've been more than just coaches, they've been close friends."

East has fun by winning; Warriors 3rd in scramble

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Belleville East golf coach Dean Renn said Saturday's Granite City Scramble offered his team a chance to relax and have fun at the midway point of their season.

The Lancers enjoyed themselves immensely as they finished first in the 13-team field with a total of 201. Edwardsville was runner-up with a total of 204. The host Warriors tied last year's champion, Salem, for third with a team total of 208.

Each team submitted two-man teams in three different flights. Each player played through and the best score in the tandem counted on the scorecard.

East's A-flight team of Justin Kuehn and Torre Triboni had the lowest round of the day at Arlington with a blistering 8-under par 64 over 18 holes. Matt Klamm and Kyle Jackson were second in B-flight with a 68. The Lancers' C-flight of Kurt Weber and Derrick Elhausen shot a 69 to finish fourth.

"We have the five seniors and if they're going to do anything, this is their year," said Renn. "This really doesn't provide us with a measuring stick. There's no pressure here. We were playing for fun."

Edwardsville's B-flight of Steve Bopp and Jason Blom had the second-best round of the day (66) to win their flight. Granite City's C-flight of senior Steve Rains and sophomore Kenny Felty had the best round of the day for their team with a 68.

It came as no surprise that the C-flight was the best for the Warriors. Granite City doesn't have one or two dominant players and usually counts on a team effort to win.

"I think this can be a turning point for me,"

said Rains, who has had problems breaking 40 lately. "We've got some guys who are consistent like Josh (McClelland), Kenny and Jon (Duft), who's coming back. And I'm staying around 40 or 41. We're playing well right now."

Warrior coach Russ Chappell made the right match by putting Rains and Felty together. Rains said their styles are similar and that helped towards the low round.

"It was a good match, putting Kenny and I together," said Rains. "We could have easily shot a couple of strokes better, but we had some puts in the cup. I was relaxed all day long and I felt I hit the ball well. But I can do better."

GCAHA registration Saturday; play opens late in November

The Granite City Amateur Hockey Association's youth teams will be accepting registration for the fall season Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

The Steelers teams begin practicing in October, with league play beginning at the end of November and ending in March. Teams are organized in age and skill level divisions. Boys and girls are eligible. The Mite Division is for age 9 and under; Squirt Division for age 11 and under; Pee Wee Division for age 13 and under; Bantam Division for age 15 and under; and Midget Division for age 17 and under.

A special five-week Learn to Play Hockey program is offered for beginning skaters ages 5-9. Older skaters will be placed directly on entry level teams where available.

The Granite City Steelers teams are members of the Missouri Amateur Ice Hockey Association and play against teams from St. Louis as well as Cahokia and Springfield, Ill.

All boys and girls from throughout Madison County are invited to participate. Registration requirements include that a parent or guardian be present to enroll a skater, that a copy of the skater's birth certificate be available, and a minimum of a $60 registration fee. Full ice time fees for travel teams are $300. House teams are $175.

The Steelers teams play a league schedule of 18-20 games, with about 20 practice times. Home games are played at the Wilson Park rink. Amateur Hockey Association of the United States (AHAUS) rules apply, and certified coaches and referees supervise the games.

A $90 registration fee deposit is required for the Learn to Play program. That fee covers a starter equipment package that each child will keep. Included is a pair of CCM Rapide skates, CCM gloves and CCM helmet and cage. A minimal ice time fee will be announced later. The first session will primarily be "Learn to Skate."

Mutual admiration

Hudler promoting Terry Moore for Hall of Fame

By David Wilhelm
Staff writer

Terry Moore loves the way Rex Hudler plays. Hudler loves the way Moore plays. Together, they form a perfect mutual admiration society.

And Hudler can be added to the growing number of people who believe Moore, of Collinsville, belongs in baseball's Hall of Fame. It's current Cardinal Hudler coming to the support of former Redbird Moore.

He had speed and he was a good hitter, too," said Hudler, who has pledged to join the drive led by Wilma Chase of Collinsville to get Moore elected by the veterans committee into the Hall of Fame.

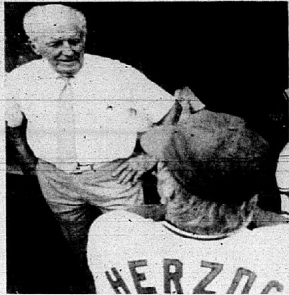

The committee will meet after the 1992 baseball season in Florida to determine which new names will be added to the 1993 ballot. In 11 seasons, Moore had a lifetime batting average of .280, with 80 home runs and 313 RBI, and was nearly flawless with the glove.

"I've looked at some of his career numbers and I'm very impressed," Hudler said. "I think he should be in the Hall."

Moore also has words of praise for Hudler, the Cardinals' energetic infielder-outfielder. "He plays rough," said Moore. "He dives for the ball and does all he can. I enjoy watching him play."

Hudler, however, hasn't been able to attain the everyday playing status of Moore, 30, considered one of the finest center fielders ever. Moore played for the Cardinals from 1953-62 and from 1966-68, and anchored an outfield that featured Hall of Famers Enos Slaughter and Stan Musial.

Hudler, therefore, is understandably interested in a few pointers from Moore. During reunions prior to the Cardinals Centennial Celebration on June 11, Moore and Hudler had plenty of opportunities to talk baseball.

Metro east resident Terry Moore, a former Cardinal great, talks with Whitey Herzog at a Cardinal reunion at Busch Stadium.

"I've really enjoyed his presence," said Hudler. "He's a real humble man and he has a lot to offer to a young outfielder like myself. Well, one who's getting older. It is interesting to pick his brain a little bit (and) talk to him about how he used to field balls."

"Back then they didn't have sunglasses, or at least they didn't use them very regularly, so he's told me how he used to approach a ball hit into the sun."

He appreciated a young player respecting his opinion. When he did what he did, it was so long ago I don't know if I was even thought of at the time."

"We get together once in awhile, especially if it's at some (baseball) affair," said Moore. "He looks me up and talks to me a lot."

Moore appreciates Hudler's interest. "We get together once in awhile, especially if it's at some (baseball) affair," said Moore. "He looks me up and talks to me a lot."

Moore said many current major-leaguers seem to think they know more (than former players). They think they're stars because they make a lot of money."

Not Hudler. "Anything that can help me be a better ballplayer, I'm interested in," Hudler said. "And that man had time for me."

"Rex is the fighting type," said Moore. "He knows he's got a lot to learn."

"He can't break in (to the starting lineup). They give him a lot of chances. Who gets to play is who's playing the best ball and hitting. That's what the manager has to go on."

Specifically, what areas would Moore like to see Hudler improve in?

"I just wish he could hit a little better," said Moore. "He gets too excited up there and swings at too many bad balls. But the last three or four times he's pinch-hit, he didn't seem to be anxious to swing at the first pitch. It seems like he's getting smarter."

Hudler said of Moore: "I couldn't ever match up to what that man did, but our heart's the same. The man's got a good heart, he's genuine and he's humble, and that's the best thing about him."

Even if Hudler doesn't ever achieve Moore's prowess, he enjoys being told that he plays as hard as Moore did.

"I'm very honored to be mentioned with him because I don't feel I'm half the player he was," Hudler said. "He was an everyday player, and that's something I haven't had the chance to do."

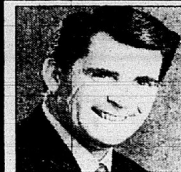

"But he had the same concepts (as me) — playing all-out 100 percent of the time."

The St. Louis Women's Bowling Association senior singles tournament will be held Oct. 3, 1992 at Strike 'N Spare Lanes.

Squads will take place at noon and 3 p.m. Entry fee is $11 per bowler, who must be 55 years of age or older. For information call 432-5757. Closing date for entries is Sept. 21.

A wrap-up note about Team Irish, which bowled exhibitions here against Team St. Louis on Sept. 7 and 9. They were thoroughly impressed with St. Louis, the Arch, the National Bowling Hall of Fame and Museum, and St. Louis bowlers, in particular.

(Howard Kee writes a bowling column for the Suburban Journals.)

Teamwork — Steve Missey, an Area 12 Special Olympic volunteer and member of the advisory committee, receives a check from Granite City Warrior basketball players (left to right) Jamie Cavanese, Kristi Meltzer and Penny Kreher. The $234 was 20 percent of their earnings for participating in a Free Throw-A-Thon sponsored by the Kuts Girls Basketball Club. Also contributing were Holly Farnsworth of Granite City, and Bethany and Ashley Ryzaj of Edwardsville.

"I don't think I would have experienced such a close relationship like that had I played another sport. Soccer has taken me further than I ever imagined. My future looks real bright, and the game will practically hand me a college education."

But Dippel just wants to enjoy his senior year for now.

That decision (going to college) is still a year away," he said. "My goal right now is to have a good season and help us win another state championship."

Other candidates for Athlete of the Week were: Jennifer Caviness of the Granite City volleyball team; Donald Whitney of the Cahokia football team; and Ken Felty of the Granite City golf team.

Each week one varsity athlete from Granite City, Madison, Venice, Cahokia, Dupo, East St. Louis or Lincoln high schools is selected by the Journal Sports staff as the East Side Publications Journal Athlete of the Week. Selected athletes are eligible for consideration as the Journal Athlete of the Month.

The A-flight duo for Granite City, Duff and Gabe Mitchell, shot a 71 for 9th place. P.J. Hamilton and Josh McClelland were third in the B-flight with a round of 69.

"I think that's very indicative of the team we have," said Warrior coach Russ Chappell. "Any one of these kids can have a good day. I think Jon and Gabe felt some pressure playing at the higher flight against some of the better kids in the area."

Raku Pottery show at BAC

Artisans have been working with clay—forming water containers, bowls and decorative pieces—since the beginning of civilization. Belleville Area College instructor and artist Guy Weible has a special interest in Raku—a technique similar to those used by Japanese artists in the fourth century.

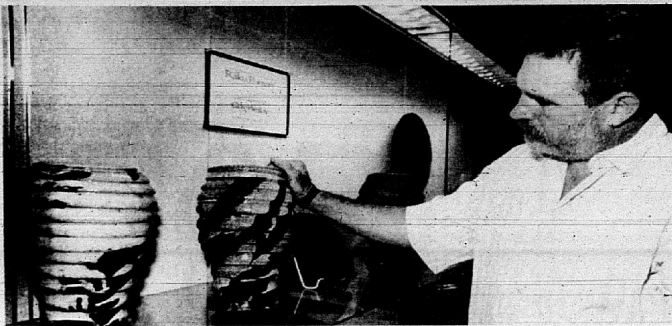

Weible's one-man Raku pottery show is on display at the Belleville Campus Second Floor Gallery until the end of September.

The translation from Japanese to English for the word "Raku" is "happiness, pleasure," said Weible.

"Raku serving pieces are an important part of the Japanese tea ceremony. The spiritual aspect of the ceremony is much like the process of making the pottery—what comes out, happens. It is hard to control," he said.

Raku pottery tends to be a buff color. It is handled and shaped like other clays, but is fired in an outdoor kiln. The pottery is removed from the kiln when it is red hot and placed in a combustion chamber that has been filled with sawdust and straw.

When that material catches fire, a lid is placed over the top of the container, smothering the fire. The pottery stays in the container for 10 minutes and then is cooled in a tub of water. The whole process can take 35 minutes.

"Raku is quick and immediate," said Weible. "Because of the process and its cracked appearance, this type of pottery is used as decorative pieces and not for dinner ware in the U.S."

"Raku is just one of many types of art taught at BAC, but it's a medium that I particularly enjoy," said Weible. BAC has a fully equipped art facility with instructors who are both teachers and working artists in a wide range of disciplines.

OH MY ACHING CORNS!

A phrase so commonly used by those suffering needlessly from painful corns. Although trimming them affords temporary relief, within 1-2 months regrowth of the corn occurs along with the pain and discomfort. The recurrence is due to the underlying calcium deposit causing excessive pressure where the skin responds by building up that corn tissue. In almost all instances the corn can be permanently removed by an in-office procedure requiring little or no time off work. There is no need to suffer any longer—consult the physicians and surgeons at the FOOT HEALTH CENTERS.

The Foot Health Centers

Staffed with physicians and surgeons specializing in the medical and surgical treatment of diseases and deformities of the foot.

SIUE professor addresses Esperanto conference

Ronald Glossop, a professor of philosophical studies at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and a proponent of adopting Esperanto as a world language, presented a lecture at the 77th World Congress of Esperanto conducted earlier this summer in Vienna, Austria.

Esperanto was created more than 100 years ago by L.L. Zamenhof of Bialystok, Poland, and is designed to be used as a "neutral" second language for international communication.

The language contains no irregularities and has a system of prefixes and suffixes with standardized meanings, so that it can be learned in a fourth of the time needed to learn other languages, such as French or Russian, according to Esperanto advocates.

Professor Glossop, coordinator of the Peace Studies program at SIUE, presented his lecture about Nova Monda Ordoro (Du Usongaj Vidpunktoj) [A New World Order: Two U.S. Viewpoints] as part of the Internacia Kongreso Universitato.

In addition, Professor Glossop attended several discussion sessions, where focus was on building a more peaceful world, and a meeting of the organization for Esperantist philosophers.

As vice president of the International League of Esperantists, Glossop was also actively involved in the congress meetings conducted by that organization. He subsequently participated in a conference of Esperanto instructors conducted the first week of August in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia.

According to Glossop, Esperanto makes sense as a universal language. Although many people throughout the world are learning English, he said, only 8 percent of the world's population speaks English as a first language, and the percentage is dropping.

"People trying to learn English as a second language do much better with Esperanto," he said, "an many Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Latin Americans, and Africans have already discovered."

For more information about Esperanto or about the Congress, call Glossop at 692-3376 or (314) 869-2303.

Stick to healthy lunches and snacks

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

Those who carry their lunch piggyback often can need variety, but they can hitch up foods that offer more nutrition, too. Jeannette L. Miller, co-author with Elisabeth Schafer of "Lunches to Go — Brown Bagging It," says snacks are routine for people who run out of steam.

"Some people do better with a lot of small meals and they know they must have a snack in mid-afternoon. Small children have very small stomachs, so a small child cannot make it from noon to 6 p.m. without a snack," she says.

Miller — a registered dietitian who teaches and writes about good health in the Carbondale, Ill., area — says that sometimes a snack and lunch look alike, but lunch is considered a main meal.

According to figures I have read, more people are taking lunch breaks particularly after the baby boomer group is coming to the fore. The fact that they can't find out now that a little ballast is being added to the frame, they are finding they cannot always run out and pick up something that adds to that,' she says.

A vending machine can be one source of nutritious food if employees make sure it is stocked with that type of food. It is up to them also to guarantee it stays there by buying those items rather than non-nutritious foods.

Miller says many peoples' lunch can get stuck in a rut. It usually consists of white bread, bologna, cheese, apple and chips. Stimulating creativity over the noon-whistle meal results in more than an apple and a sandwich, but it does not need to take more time to prepare.

She suggests varying the breads, which can be good sources of B vitamins. Whole wheat bread, rye bread, pita pockets, tortillas, bagels, muffins, buns of any kind, crackers, breadsticks, English muffins and rolls are good choices. Cereals are among the possibilities for breads. Flattened cereals, such as corn flakes, can be used to fill cream cheese, fresh fruit and even flavored tort. Lower fat salad dressings and cheeses, which are being updated constantly, add to enjoyable lunchtime eating.

Some of the choices are not the only cargo to tote to school or work. Soups, fruit or vegetable beverages, leaves and casseroles, and desserts can be on the menu, too. She suggests making a "Twinkie" cake when there is a little time to bake, then wrapping the Twinkies and freeze them to add to lunch once in a while.

"People who want to eat well sometimes get in a mind-set where they only eat fish or chicken — until they want to swim or cackle," Miller says. "They aren't really looking around. People need to eat with the world. Children and adults need to understand that there is no good food or bad food. It is really a matter of moderation and balance. You really can have barbecued chips if you adore them."

The authors include a list of what children can do to prepare their own lunches as they mature. A child who is 3 to 6 years old can choose one of two options, wash and peel carrots, prepare Ants on a Log (raisins sprinkled on top of peanut butter in the hollow of celery), and progress with harder projects, until, by the time he is 13, he probably will be able to follow a recipe of six to seven ingredients independently in the kitchen.

"Parents with children asked us how much rein to allow their children in fixing their own lunches," Miller says. "It is important that they assume more responsibility for their meal as they get older to the point where they do it themselves, following some guidelines. It promotes responsibility in later years. This is no reason for a parent to feel guilty about shirking a responsibility."

The authors offer a lunch idea book to spark the imagination of the healthy, as well as help those who are trying to follow a preplanned diet. It contains recipes with nutritional analysis, as well as individual sections detailing ingredients by their sodium, cholesterol and fat content. There is a section with recipes geared to children. It includes 260 menus — including 100 for children — and suggests menus to celebrate special events, such as Fardoned Salad on Benedict Arnold's birthday. There is a section on safe lunch accessories, too.

The book can be ordered from Pearl Publications for $12.95 plus $2.50 shipping, by contacting the publisher at toll-free 800-877-1406 or writing to P.O. Box 2976, Carbondale, Ill. 62902-2976. The recipe for cauliflower salad from the cookbook is one of Miller's favorites.

Ice-cold fruit sorbet is healthy alternative

By Cynthia Fauser

Food is to be enjoyed. Some people may think that sounds heretical coming from a dietitian, but we have taste buds, too.

It is unfortunate that so many people interpret their doctor's advice to lose weight, eat less fat, less sodium or fewer sweets as a life sentence to culinary misery. Abstinence from favorite foods often is not the intent. Rather, there should be a more healthful use of smaller portions, lower fat or lower sugar choices and less frequent indulgences.

Consider desserts. Wouldn't it be nice to be able to enjoy dessert once in a while without feeling guilty? The biggest culprit in such sweets usually is fat, not sugar.

There are ways to work with this way of eating.

Make an apple pie with one crust instead of two to trim about 90 fat calories per serving. Better yet, substitute a baked apple stuffed with raisins, a sprinkle of brown sugar, cinnamon and a scant ½ teaspoon margarine. A topping of ½ cup low-fat ice milk or frozen yogurt adds a creamy contrast without many fat calories.

Fruits are a natural when planning dessert. Fresh melons, pears or mixed fruits in mixed fruits in season require minimal preparation and are a wonderful ending to a meal.

Frozen fruit desserts are another way to enjoy life's pleasures. A fruit ice or sorbet is a simple mixture of fruit juice or pureed fruit, sugar and water. Experiment with pears, pineapple or any other fruit. Proportions vary from one-half to one cup sugar for every four cups pureed fruit. Some sweetening is desirable because freezing dulls sweet flavors, but I cut back today's peach sorbet recipe from 2 cups to 1 cup sugar.

Artificial sweeteners, such as aspartame and saccharin, also can be used. Fruit ice made with artificial sweeteners freezes faster and harder than a sugar-sweetened ice. Either kind freezes better in an ice cream freezer, although metal pans or ice cube trays in the freezer work, too. Move the ice to a refrigerator to about 20 minutes before serving to soften it.

Wise Ways

Fast nutrition on a budget

Fresh peach sorbet

- 4 cups sliced, peeled, ripe peaches
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 bags lemon juice
- Cookies, if desired
- Strawberries, if desired

Puree peaches in food processor or blender.

In a 4-quart saucepan, combine orange juice, sugar and lemon juice. Stir over medium heat until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat. Stir in pureed peaches. Pour into 13-by-9-inch pan. Freeze until firm.

In batches, process firm peach mixture in food processor or blender about 1 minute until light and fluffy. Refreeze until firm.

Local cantaloupe ice

- 4 cups peeled, sliced cantaloupe
- 36 packets aspartame sweetener (equal)
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 bags lemon juice

Puree cantaloupe in food processor or blender. Combine with sweetener, orange and lemon juice in 13-by-9-inch pan. Freeze until firm.

In batches, process firm cantaloupe mixture in food processor or blender about 1 minute until light and fluffy. Refreeze until firm.

Young appetites are endeared to mild-tasting seafood meals

Dishing up good food fast is a real challenge for parents all year. Trying to get children to develop good eating habits at an early age may be difficult. Let surimi (imitation crab) seafood come to the rescue.

This mild, even, sweet-tasting seafood is an easy and popular addition to recipes that kids will like. Precooked, economical surimi seafood is made from lean, white fish, usually Alaskan pollock. Like most fish, it is extremely low — less than one percent — in fat. Served in sticks, it is a convenient pick-up food, too.

Take-Home Pizza encourages youngsters to eat vegetables by covering those vegetables with pizza sauce and melted cheese. Mix and match two to six vegetable toppings from the wide assortment of vegetables usually found in the freezer or vegetable bin with surimi seafood and cover with bottled or homemade tomato sauce, such as the one in Seafood Vermicelli.

Replace plain tuna salad in school lunch boxes with zesty Seafood Salad made the night before. Spoon the salad into pita pockets, wrap tightly in plastic film and refrigerate overnight for a fast get-away the next morning.

Pack an extra pita pocket for sharing or trading with a friend, and include a piece of fruit and a cookie for a nutritious feast. This idea should not be limited to children, because a seafood salad sandwich is a hit at the office, too.

Seafood Vermicelli adapts another traditional family favorite, using surimi seafood in a spicy tomato sauce over thin spaghetti noodles. This also makes a terrific sauce to freeze and have on hand for nights when making dinner from scratch takes too long.

Take-five seafood pizza

- 1 (6 inch) pita bread round, halved English muffin or small prepared pizza shell
- 1/2 cup (1 1/2 oz.) crab-flavored surimi seafood, flake or chunk style
- 1/2 cup combined vegetable toppings chosen from frozen corn, peas or broccoli cuts; thinly sliced red or green bell pepper; thinly sliced onion separated into rings; and thinly sliced mushrooms
- 1/4 cup melted spaghetti or pizza sauce
- 1 slice or 2 tbsp. grated mozzarella cheese

Preheat oven to 400°. On baking sheet, bake pizza "crust" 5 minutes or according to package directions in preheat oven.

Spread seafood evenly over bread. Arrange 1/2 cup vegetable toppings over surimi spaghetti sauce evenly over vegetables. Top with cheese. Bake 10 to 12 minutes until cheese is melted and sauce is bubbling hot. Serve with plenty of paper napkins. Yields 1 serving; 317 calories, 19 g protein, 10 g fat, 35 mg cholesterol and 713 mg sodium.

- 3 rounds pita bread

In mixing bowl, combine seafood with celery and onion. Mix mayonnaise with ketchup, pickle relish and horseradish. Add to seafood mixture. Stir until blended.

With sharp knife, cut pita in equal halves and carefully separate to form pockets. Line bottom half of each pocket with lettuce leaf. Spoon in scant 1/2 cup seafood salad. Wrap individually in waxed paper or plastic film.

Seafood vermicelli

- 8 oz. uncooked vermicelli pasta
- 1 onion, chopped

GINGERBREAD HOUSE TIPS...

- Roll dough while warm. If it cools and is difficult to roll, microwave 10 seconds on High, or warm for 5 minutes in a conventional oven preheated to 150° F.
- Roll dough directly on cookie sheet. Place sheet on damp towel to prevent it from sliding.
- If dough bubbles during baking, smooth top gently with metal spatula.

Shriners to raise funds to aid crippled children

The week of Sept. 13-19 has been proclaimed Shrine Hospital Week by local communities. Annapolis Temple will sponsor its eighth annual newspaper sale crusade throughout Southern Illinois, distributing approximately 250,000 papers.

One hundred percent of the net proceeds of the paper sale crusade will go to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children to pay for treatment and care of crippled and burned youngsters. More than 95 percent of all money received by the Shriners' Hospital is applied to patient care.

The Shrine hospital network is composed of 22 hospitals, 19 orthopedic and three burn centers. All treatment at these hospitals is free.

VFW offers scholarships

"Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program," said Commander Jim Taylor of the Madison Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7451 in discussing the broadcast script writing program conducted annually by the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary.

Some of the fringe benefits, Taylor said, are increased self-confidence and poise, experience in communicating with others and valuable training in self-expression.

For the state winners, there is also the broadening experience of a five-day tour of Washington, D.C., and the opportunity to make lasting friendships with other state winners.

In the 46 years that the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have been involved with the Voice of Democracy Program, more than 6,000,000 high school students have participated. Participants write and then tape-record a three-to-five minute broadcast script expressing their views on "My Voice in America's Future." From among the state winners, national winners are chosen to receive a total of more than $78,500 in scholarships.

One of the greatest benefits to young people who take part in the program is that by thinking, writing and speaking up for their country, they gain a better appreciation of their obligation and freedom in America, Taylor said.

Auxiliary president feted

Eagles Auxiliary 1126 celebrated the birthday of President Joanna Spencer with a large decorated birthday cake that was presented at the altar.

Tables were decorated in her colors of blue and white, and luncheon of cake and desserts was served. In lieu of gifts, will be used for a Christmas children's party to be held at the Eagles Hall in December.

Spencer opened the meeting, with conductor Vera Johnson presenting the flag, emblem of the home and the Bible at the altar. Secretary Vincine Zerlan read previous minutes and bills.

The auxiliary donated $30 to the Pontoon Beach Library for the purchase of books. Junior Past President Del Delaney presented the check to Vickie Elmore, manager of the library.

Proposed changes to the auxiliary by-laws were read for the second time by the by-law committee members Susie Rodgers and Helen Mueller. The last reading will be held at the next meeting before the discussion on the changes.

Marian Wright was installed as the new inside guard by Florence Hagnauer and presented with her badge of office.

Get well and sympathy cards were sent to members by Visiting Chairman Evelyn Elderie.

Investigating Chairman Katie Kostoff reported favorably on two candidates for membership, and balloting was held for two applicants.

Children from infancy to their 18th birthday are eligible for treatment, regardless of their race, religion or relationship to a Shriner. Insurance monies and government assistance are never used.

Known as "the world's greatest philanthropy," the Shriners' hospitals are described in a special edition newspaper.

Many of the 8,000 Shriners in southern Illinois will be standing on street corners and entrances to businesses distributing the newspapers.

A spokesman said, "If you would like to donate funds, the nobles in their colorful vest and traditional red fez, with ever-smiling faces, will have containers to receive donations."

Lahaina offers nice escape for Journal Tour members

Lahaina, the premier town on the Hawaiian island of Maui, is an example of a community with excitement but with a smaller size to allow a traveler to see it leisurely.

Journal Grand Tour members traveling to Hawaii in February 1993 will stop on Maui as well as the other Hawaiian islands during the two-week visit.

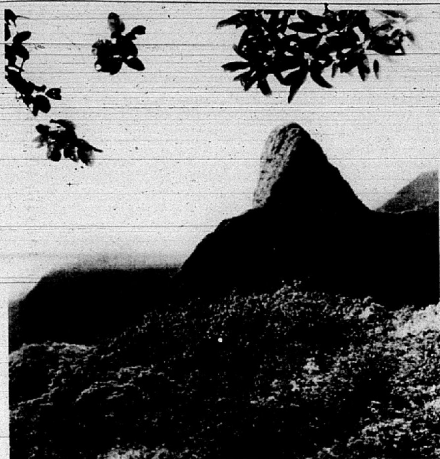

Tour members will have accommodations at the Hyatt Regency Resort on Kaaanapali Beach, a central location allowing comprehensive sightseeing with ample time on the beach and in Lahaina.

For information on the Grand Hawaiian Tour and other 1993 Journal-sponsored tours to Alaska and the German/Austrian/Italian Alps, contact Tenholder Travel at 894-5555 or 800-333-5910 in St. Louis.

For a description of the travel values available next year, sign up now to attend one of the two free Grand Travel Shows Oct. 6 at the Missouri Botanical Garden. Although admission is free, reservations are needed because of limited seating.

Outside interest in Maui's main town, Lahaina, started in the early 1800s when whaler boats hunting for sperm and humpback whales stopped for provisions. After a raucous history, Lahaina settled into a sleepy sugar town once the whale population declined.

In the 1960s, local interests cleaned up magnificent Kaaanapali Beach and most of the town of Lahaina was turned into a national historical landmark. It's that restored town and beach which serves as such a pleasant host for tourists groups and individuals today.

Iao Needle mountain is one of the sites on Maui.

MEMORIAL'S OUTPATIENT SURGERY CENTER... "UNCOMMON" CARING, BUT NOT IN A "COMMON" AREA.

Outpatient surgery has many advantages. But spending time in a large "shared" or "common" room close to other patients before and after surgery isn't one of them - particularly when you may not be at your best or when you need to discuss your personal medical concerns with your physician or nurse.

From patient evaluations of our services, they told us privacy is an important priority. We listened. Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center sets new standards for others to follow by providing personalized care by exceptional nursing professionals in our 28 private patient areas - each with a TV and room for family members to stay with you before and after surgery.

They also told us to pay attention to other important things, like prompt registration, a separate family waiting area, adjacent parking and a drive-up entrance. We did. Small conveniences, perhaps, but aren't these what we notice most?

When your physician recommends outpatient surgery - from minor to the most complex procedures - ask that it be performed at Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center - where personalized caring, privacy, and convenience are "common."

Guild plans parking lot sale

After a summer break, the Women's Service Guild of St. John Lutheran Church resumed its meetings on Sept. 3. Plans for the remainder of 1992 were discussed and finalized. A parking lot sale will be held at the church location of St. Clair and Dale, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Oct. 3. Hot dogs and sodas will be available, along with various other items of clothing, furniture, and miscellaneous things for sale. For November an auction will be held in the church fellowship hall. Items such as crafts, antiques and bakery items will be auctioned off. This event is planned for from 7 to 9 p.m. on Nov. 2. The annual Christmas meeting will be a dinner at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant in Granite City. All women of the congregation are invited to join the group at 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 3 for a Ladies Night Out.

Mission retreat set

The faith community of Holy Family, Granite City, is inviting everyone in the area to join in the parish mission/retreat to be celebrated through Oct. 4-8.

Although this mission/retreat will encompass day and evening events, the principal instruction of mission will happen each evening in the church from 7 until 9 p.m. The Rev. Jim Allen of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate from Belleville, a former director of the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, will lead the mission.

The principal focus of the Oblates ministry is to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the poor, in every sense of that word. Its more than 5,000 members carry on their mission in every continent.

The theme of the parish mission will be "God's love for humanity"—a love which leads through the mystery of the Cross to the challenge of discipleship. This is a challenge to all God's people regardless of faith denomination.

Holy Family Parish, 2806 Washington, invites everyone to mark their calendar to join in a spirit of faith renewal. Call the parish office at 452-8344 for details.

Block party Sept. 20

The deacons of First Presbyterian Church, 2160 Delmar Ave., Granite City, met on Aug. 17 and announced that the annual block party will be held on Sept. 20, from 3 to 6 p.m., in the church parking lot.

There will be hot dogs, popcorn and orange drink. The entertainment will be provided by the Third Wind Band. There will also be a magician to entertain children.

The deacons extended an open invitation to the community to come and join in the fun.

The party will be held in the Fellowship Hall in case of rain.

Military

Richard Meyer

Marine Pfc. Richard S. Meyer, son of Aaron L. and Jeanne M. Meyer, both of Granite City, recently completed recruit training and was promoted to his present rank.

During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

The 1991 graduate of Granite City High School joined the Marine Corps in April 1992.

David Hale

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class David R. Hale, son of Ernest L. and Ernel E. Hale of Granite City, recently returned aboard the guided missile frigate USS Robert G. Bradley, homeported in Charleston, S.C., from a six-month deployment to the Persian Gulf.

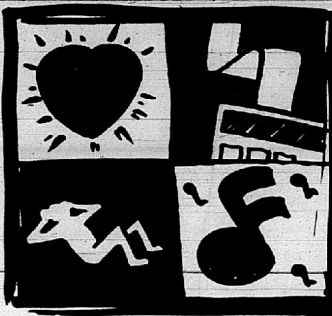

Hale participated in Neon Spark, a bilateral exercise conducted with the Gulf state of Bahrain involving Bahraini patrol boats and aircraft. Another exercise, GulfEx XII, was a multinational exercise involving ships from the British Royal Navy, French Navy and U.S. Navy. Both exercises involved communication drills, tactical ship handling, live gunnery exercises and anti-air and anti-air warfare scenarios.

Hale also participated in maritime interception operations in the northern Red Sea with Australian, British and French ships in support of the United Nations sanctions against Iraq.

Auxiliary buys pulmonary analyzer

St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Pulmonary Lab now has the capability to measure a patient's lung capacity faster and easier, since it can take the machine to a patient's bedside.

The SEMC Auxiliary purchased a Pulmonary Function Analyzer 2300, which cost about $30,000, according to Dan McDowell, director of Pulmonary Services.

The piece of equipment we had was malfunctioning in the middle of tests," he said. "This required the test to be stopped, the machine to be repaired and the patient's test to be rescheduled."

Although this analyzer provides the same basic information as the previous one, it has more powerful software.

Testing on the new machine is not yet restricted to the Pulmonary Lab. The unit is mobile, allowing the staff to perform all aspects of pulmonary diagnostic aprometry in a patient's room.

JoAnne Simpher, chief pulmonary function technician, said, "Pulmonary function testing is a strenuous procedure, which takes approximately two hours to perform. Many times, patients are forced to sit upright in the Pulmonary Function Testing Lab for two hours of testing."

You may remember Urlich from the classy "Spenser for Hire" which frequently had clever things to say. This program

But it also has such lines as this delivered by Ulrich to his son: "We've been dealt a hand. Guess we're going to play it out." Yikes. Oh, well, it's an uneven offering, but we can expect to see this program played out in various settings as Ulrich gets farther and farther from New York politics in order

"Going to Extremes" (already running, 8 p.m. Tuesdays) also goes far afield for its setting. It's about the students at a medical school set on an island somewhere in the Caribbean to serve aspiring doctors who, for whatever reason, didn't get into

to do with the audience appeal of a bunch of attractive young people in a tropical setting than does with medical philosophy, but the offering I saw had some funny situations.

I found that by the end of the first episode, I liked the program more than at the beginning.

'50 rockers helped shape new musical styles

By Bill Beggs
Correspondent

WHEN ROCK WAS YOUNG: Pop historians mark the birth of the rock era by the success of "Rock Around The Clock," the classic song by Bill Haley & His Comets that started its eight-week run at No. 1 in Billboard on July 9, 1955. American music would never be the same.

1. Jerry Lee Lewis first struck gold in September 1957 with what No. 3 hit?

2. Who is Richard Wayne Penniman, born Dec. 3, 1935, better known as?

3. Name the famous victims of a plane crash on Feb. 2, 1959, near Mason City, Iowa.

4. In August 1958 "Poor Little Fool" became the first chart-topper for whom?

5. On Dec. 4, 1956, Elvis Presley stumbled into a Memphis recording session featuring Carl Perkins and Jerry Lee Lewis, an impromptu teaming known today as the "Million Dollar Quartet." That means someone else didn't stick around. Who was he?

6. Michael Jackson, who hit

No. 2 in 1972 with "Rockin' Robin," wasn't the first to soar that high. Who hit No. 2 with the tune first, in October 1957?

7. What 1950s rocker appeared as a bouncer in John Landis' 1985 movie "Fever Pitch," starring Jeff Goldblum and Michelle Pfeiffer?

8. Glenn Frey and Johnny Rivers both scored with remakes of what No. 14 Frankie Ford classic from April 1959?

9. What group held down No. 1 for seven weeks in early 1958 with "At The Hop"?

ANSWERS: 1. "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On" 2. Little Richard 3. Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens, The Big Bopper 4. Ricky Nelson 5. Johnny Cash — his wife convinced him to take her Christmas shopping 6. Bobby Day 7. Carl Perkins 8. "Sea Cruise" 9. Danny & The Juniors

High school students gain multicultural awareness

By Maria Strinni
Correspondent

On Saturday, Sept. 12, high school students from Mascoutah, Belleville East, Belleville West, Alton, Lincoln and East Side Senior High became a bit more multiculturally aware.

"Youth Talking to Youth" was the theme of the workshop, sponsored by the Racial Harmony ad hoc Committee on Cultural Diversity for Youth.

Peggy LeCompte and Barbara Sempura chaired this committee, featuring Brooke Braly, Paula Braly, Linda Carter, Larry LeCompte, Jr., John Kirchoff, Jim Schneider, Ruby Steele, Lee Whittaker and Tom Whittaker.

Approximately 70 students from area schools gathered at the Southern Illinois University East St. Louis Center to learn about and discuss racial problems and how they impact on teenagers.

Braly, co-chair of Racial Harmony and a committee member of the Racial Harmony ad hoc, said she and LeCompte wanted to sponsor an event that involved students.

"To me, any success in the future with harmony among the races will come from the youth," said LeCompte. "Thus, the committee pulled together to accomplish one purpose—to get a variety of students together to discuss and try to understand racial tensions."

"Youth Talking to Youth" featured two speakers: Dr. William Epps, director of the St. Clair County Head Start Program, and the Rev. Robert Tabscott, historian in residence with the Voluntary Interdistrict Coordinating Council.

During his speech, Epps stressed the need to debunk stereotypes.

reotypes.

"We can't label each other by how we look," said Epps. "One race is no more superior than another. We all have something to contribute."

Epps then listed a variety of people who breakdown those stereotypes.

"If you show me a Larry Bird," said Epps, "I'll show you a Michael Jordan. If you show me a Johnny Carson, I'll show you an Arsenio Hall. If you show me a John F. Kennedy, I'll show you a Dr. Martin Luther King."

During his speech, Tabscott took students on a historical journey highlighting black heroes and heroines.

He reenacted with the students some of the tragedies blacks had to endure in the 18th and 19th centuries. The audience received a shock when Tabscott pulled one student out of the audience. He then transformed himself into the role of a slave auctioneer trying to sell that student.

"I thought the speakers were really good," said 18-year-old DeCarlo Johnson, a senior at Lincoln High School in East St. Louis. "They got everybody involved. That's what made it fun. It was pretty interesting."

After listening to the speakers, the students broke up into small groups, led by past graduates of their schools. Here, students asked and answered questions that are not usually dealt with on a daily basis.

No adults were allowed in the youth-to-youth workshops.

"The reason for this was so students could feel free to open up without adult pressure," Braly said.

Many students commented on the tension that first filled the room during the workshops, due in part to the fear of sounding offensive and the lack of white participants involved in the workshop.

Those tensions were eased, however, as students began to open up and discuss stereotypes and the differences between being black and white in a predominantly white community.

"Everybody got to know each other," said Johnson. "We got to see that we agreed on a lot of the same things."

Shana Gregory, a junior at Belleville West, said the best thing about the workshop was "the kids all sitting in their groups, just talking."

Gregory said that harmony among the races "has to start with everybody. We have to see different points of view, and not just our own."

Though the committee was pleased with the workshop as a whole, many were disappointed that a more diverse group was not on hand.

Committee member Linda Carter said she was disappointed by the lack of white students.

"For the most part, the workshop went well," Carter said. "But I think the lack of white students sent some wrong messages to the East St. Louis students."

"I thought the workshop itself was beautiful," said LeCompte. "We did not reach our goal of equal representation, but it was a start. You've got to start somewhere."

Although Johnson wondered why there were not more white participants, he said the most important thing was that everyone at the workshop seemed to work well together.

"We all got along. That's good," said Johnson.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING THIS WEEKEND THAT'S SO IMPORTANT YOU CAN'T TEST YOUR HOME FOR RADON?

Radon is a naturally occurring, deadly radioactive gas that finds its way into millions of homes all over the country. It's the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

Fortunately, testing your home for radon is quick and easy. Test kits are inexpensive. And homes with high levels of radon can be fixed.

Yet many Americans still haven't found the time to test their homes and find out if radon is threatening their families.

If you haven't tested for radon yet, pick up a kit this weekend. Or call for more information today.
